22.03.2013. The FIA Formula 3 European Championship season got underway with a free practice session split up into two heats at Monza. At the 5.793 kilometres long track in the royal park of Monza, Felix Rosenqvist (kfzteile24 Mücke Motorsport, 1:45.243 minutes) was fastest ahead of Raffaele Marciello (Prema Powerteam, 1:45.250 minutes) and Alex Lynn (Prema Powerteam, 1:45.360 minutes).

The 30 young drivers used the total time of 80 minutes in practice for finalising the set-up of their cars and mainly went for fast lap times in the closing stages of the session. With four minutes remaining, Felix Rosenqvist moved up onto the top of the time sheets and demoted Raffaele Marciello to second place. Alex Lynn, who ended up third in free practice, also set his personal best time in the closing stages.

Dennis van de Laar (Van Amersfoort Racing, 1:45.380 minutes) was classified fourth from Sven Müller (ma-con, 1:45.441 minutes) and Eddie Cheever (Prema Powerteam, 1:45.483 minutes). Pascal Wehrlein (kfzteile24 Mücke Motorsport, 1:45.492 minutes) started into his Formula 3 farewell weekend with seventh place. Félix Serrallés (Fortec Motorsports, 1:45.517 minutes), Tom Blomqvist (Eurointernational, 1:45.576 minutes) and William Buller (ThreeBond with T-Sport, 1:45.583 minutes) rounded out the top ten. In total, the lap times of 19 drivers were within one second. Mitchell Gilbert (kfzteile24 Mücke Motorsport, 1:46.071 minutes) in 19th place was exactly 0.828 seconds down on fastest driver Felix Rosenqvist.

The first part of free practice was red-flagged and not restarted with three minutes remaining due to a technical problem from Jordan King (Carlin, 1:45.713 minutes). At the time, the Formula 3 rookie, who had come to a halt on the track, was classified second behind Raffaele Marciello and ahead of Pascal Wehrlein. In the addition of the two sessions, he ranked 13th.
